An appetite for life

Invita – table culture for seniors

Thanks to advancements in medicine and healthier living styles

most people in the developed nations now live much longer. Getting older means living a longer life, which has to be organized in its many aspects. Some people lose mobility and must learn to live with these limitations. Others are lucky enough to remain mentally and physically fit and enjoy their retirement to the fullest. They all have the desire to continue to enjoy their lifestyle in the later years.

Bauscher designs table settings for the different requirements of aging. Enjoying meal times with lovingly prepared and beautifully presented meals has a positive effect on health and fulfillment. For this reason meals play an important role both in senior residence assisted-living facilities as well as in the mobile distribution of meals to the elderly in their own homes.

Bauscher has been an established specialist in modern meal distribution to the elderly for many years. This requires a high level of empathy for the special living circumstances of older people. Their demands, which have grown over the years, as well as their minor and major handicaps guide our product development. They shape our porcelain.

Bauscher understands that it is important to offer a flexible and effective design for modern meal distribution in facilities for senior assisted living. Here you will benefit from Bauscher's decades of experience in the hospital and assisted-living sector. Our ability to perceive complex processes and systems and to develop cost-effective solutions for your specific requirements are strengths that make us a valuable partner for professional meal distribution.

This brochure provides an overview of how Bauscher porcelain can assist you in designing moments of pleasure in everyday life in a practical and convenient way – for a higher quality of life in old age.

Innovation: The search for innovation has been shaping the Bauscher brand since 1881. We invented system porcelain as well as the non-swashing soup bowl. Our latest innovation for the gastronomy scene: Noble China. A delicate porcelain that is extremely robust.

Functional design: Bauscher realizes creative and highly functional solutions with an aesthetic appearance. Our beautifully shaped porcelain combines excellent temperature storage capabilities with the highest requirements for ergonomics and hygiene.

Décor: Our décor ideas support functional aspects or are customized to specific needs, offering a unique creative potential to customers. Bauscher's inglaze décor is very durable as well as dishwasher- and microwave-safe.

Quality – Made in Germany: Firing temperatures of over 1,400°C guarantee the greatest possible hardness of porcelain and glaze. The benefits: impact-resistant edges as well as glazes resistant to wear and scratching.

Processes: Our quality assurance system monitors all processes from receipt of certified raw materials to delivery of the finished porcelain.

Sustainability: Processes that protect the environment, conserve resources and are energy efficient are firmly anchored in our corporate culture. Certified according to the highest international standards: ISO 14001 and ISO 50001.

Hygiene: Bauscher's high-quality system porcelain meets the highest quality standards. Our practical and well-designed plastic covers are the complement to our porcelain.

System competence: For meal distribution the right temperature as per HACCP is an indicator for quality. Bauscher has decades of experience in the development of system porcelain that is easy to handle and perfectly compatible with all types of meal distribution systems.

Service: Competent and easy-to-reach advice, a wide range of products with long-term availability, high delivery quality and reliability thanks to our qualified employees, cutting-edge production and logistics processes and more than 130 years of experience.

Stylish presentation of meals

For elderly people a cultivated dining experience is very important, especially if they live in a senior residence or an assisted-living facility. It is a key ritual of daily life and promotes social interaction. Meal variety is as important to the well-being of residents as the attractive presentation of meals and a table that has been prepared with care.

Bauscher offers a wide range of attractive collections for a variety of meal concepts and budgets. A fine-tuned collection with pieces that can be used in many different ways will assist in shaping the entire daily routine in a senior residence. And not only at the table. A selection of bowls, plates and Gastronorm bowls can present food in an inviting manner on buffet tables. You can show your care for your residents by choosing a beautiful décor or adding the logo of your establishment.

Easy handling thanks to functional details

People living in senior and assisted-care facilities often have restricted mobility and perception. Therefore, their ability to feed themselves independently and safely is one of the special challenges in providing optimum care.

Dialog invita and Dimension invita:

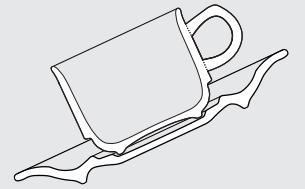

These special collections by Bauscher are available in relief and smooth versions to meet the particular requirements of such people. They offer an appealing design and ergonomic form for enjoying meals. The specially designed items win over users by offering unique, functional features. They make eating easier for people with physical limitations – which in turn enables them to be more active and participate more fully in life again.

- 3. Eating made easier
The slightly elevated plate rim makes it easier to push food onto fork or spoon.

The wide plate foot ring prevents tipping when leaning on the plate rim.
- 5. Easy to grip
An elevated plate rim makes it easier to grip.

Better orientation

Color can do more than just look good

Well-being creates quality of life. For people with restricted mobility the richly colored patterns of Bauscher don't just bring a cheerful mood to daily living. They also emphasize the important functional aspects of the two special collections Dialog invita and Dimension invita.

Invita's colorful patterns have important added benefits, especially for people with poor eyesight. Soft dots, lively structures or delicate brushstrokes in different colors create visible contrasts and provide an orientation aid for perceiving and handling cups, mugs and plates. This makes people less dependent on help from others and allows them to feel that their needs are taken seriously. In turn it gives people more confidence and a secure feeling when eating.

Well-designed functionality

- 1. Easier to see, easier for eating
Colors help people with poor eyesight to perceive functional details.
- 2. Visible contrasts
The colorful patterns indicate where the well of the plate ends, and makes it easier to push food onto the fork or spoon.
- 3. Always ready to grip
The patterns provide an orientation aid and make it easier to grip the handle.
- 4. Well-being
Attractive décor and bright colors bring a cheerful and positive atmosphere to daily living.

The dishwasher-safe inglaze décor complies with the strict US standard "Proposition 65" and all hygiene requirements and retain their color intensity even after many years.

The Bauscher Hospital and Care catalog provides a comprehensive overview of all tray systems and cover options

Attractive, safe to transport and hygienic

Residents who are served meals in their rooms enjoy an inviting presentation. The perfectly fitting Bauscher solutions make it easy to create attractively presented meals in limited spaces and transport them without spillage.

The sturdy plastic covers offer hygienic protection. They prevent food from drying out, which maintains nutritional value and good taste. Our covers combine perfectly with Bauscher porcelain to create a functional unit. A matching cover is available for every item. This offers flexibility, especially if meals need to be transported over a long distance. Another plus for hygiene: Bauscher's high-quality porcelain does not have any hidden edges and corners that could collect dirt. According to long-term testing the tableware maintains its homogenous, sealed surface even after years of intensive use.

Well-designed functionality

- 1. Cooling cover
A special coolant incorporated in the cover keeps meals cool for longer.
- 2. Cover with stacking knobs and/or spacers
Better air circulation for quick drying after washing and for stable stacking.
- 3. Stackability
Universal plates with covers can be stacked easily for transport, thus making optimal use of tray space.
- 4. Cover with textured surface
Signs of wear are less visible.

All plastic covers are microwave- and dishwasher-safe.

Served hot and fresh

Perfect fit
for all systems

Contact heat
Technical advancement: A precision-engineered base optimally absorbs the heat over its entire surface and transfers it to the foods uniformly.

Induction
The coating on the underside transforms the porcelain into high-performance induction dishware – compatible with the popular systems used for uniform heating. A special glaze protects the coating against wear and offers hygienic protection.

Air circulation
Bauscher offers high-quality system tableware to integrate air circulation systems for any purpose, any type of placement and easier handling. The items can be used to easily keep food hot or cold until it reaches its destination.

Meals on wheels

Mobile meal systems keep food hot even over long distances

"Meals on wheels" is a popular way to supply meals to the elderly who still manage well in their own homes. Compact systems keep meals as hot, fresh and safe as possible until they reach their destination. They are designed especially for longer distribution times and are therefore ideal for use over longer distances.

The completely insulated compact systems are equipped with thermally separated recesses for soups, main dish and side dishes. The dishware needs to fit precisely to allow efficient use of these systems. Bauscher system porcelain fulfills these requirements in an optimal way. In addition the porcelain's excellent ability to retain heat helps to keep the temperature of the food stable.

Well-tempered
With Bauscher's perfectly fitting items mobile meal distribution is effortless.
